Developing Socioeconomic Indicator for MENA

Project Title	Developing Socioeconomic Indicator for MENA
Project Summary	The Middle East Partnership Initiative (MEPI) is developing an index to measure qualitatively the socioeconomic status of participants in its programs.
Country	United States
Country/Region of Focus	Middle East and North Africa

Project Description

This a position for an intern to conduct research on current efforts to measure socioeconomic status in the Middle East and North Africa. With the absence of income tax in many countries in the region, estimating death and household income can be challenging with programs focusing in recruiting participants who are economically disadvantaged. The Middle East Partnership Initiative (MEPI) is developing an index to measure qualitatively the socioeconomic status of participants in its leadership training programs.

Ideal candidates should have an academic background in economic, business or sociology. Must be proficient in Excel and able to conduct research independently. Knowledge of written Arabic is a plus.

Required Skills or Interests

Skill(s)

Data analysis

Data allalysis

Additional Information

None

Language Requirements

None